August 2, 2005

Dear Healthcare employee:

I write to share information and an invitation to Lansing Community College’s grand opening celebration of the Health and Human Services Building on Friday, September 16, 2005. “Dawn of a New Day” is the theme of the celebration that will take place from 7:00 a.m. to 9:00 a.m. on the College’s downtown campus (Please see map enclosed).

We know that many of the area healthcare and human services professionals got their start at LCC and may be interested in attending this event. For the grand opening ceremony, we extend a special invitation to all LCC healthcare and human services alumni. We would like to honor these alumni and have them actively participate in this celebration. Our goal is to have 500 LCC healthcare alumni engaged in the event. In order to do this, we need some assistance from you. If you are an LCC Alumnus, please join us to be a part of the grand opening ceremony on Friday, September 16. Interested LCC Alumni may RSVP for this event by calling Pam Schmidt at the LCC Foundation at 517-483-1985 or email (schmidp@lcc.edu).

For nearly 50 years, LCC has educated thousands of nurses, imaging technicians, dental hygienists, massage therapists, health aides, child development professionals, human services workers, community health professionals, emergency medical technicians, and surgical technicians. The grand opening will celebrate the vast contributions that these alumni have made in caring for our community as well as celebrate the promise and potential of our current students.

This new building represents a strong future in healthcare programs at LCC, resulting in well educated and prepared healthcare workers for this community. Thank you for your continued support of Lansing Community College’s health care education programs and for your assistance with this request.

Respectfully,

Paula D. Cunningham
President
